tuty in the srup of the Potomse in the swamps the Chickahominy I contracted a complication diseases that culminated in spinsi trouble, pa alysis on one side, and severe disease of the neys and bladder, and great urinal weakness. For a long time I was under the treatment of the best physicians, and tried many of the so-called re dies, but received no permanent benefit. When I was in the drug business in Boston I heard favor able accounts of the efficacy of Hunt's Remedy for diseases of the kidneys and utilizary organs, and having decided to give it a trial, I purchased some at Wingate's drug store, Dover, N. H., and have received great relief from using it. The severe pains in my back are removed, and I am able to siepp soundly and obtain rest at night—which forse long at time I could not do, and the weakness in the utilizary organs has been relieved, and I greatly regret that I did not test the g eat merits of Hunt's Eemedy when I was first taken sick, as I am condident it would have saved me from 10 certal years of suffering and I am more strougly coavinced of this after hea ing of the most remarkable curse effected able account; of the efficacy of Hunt's Remedy to after hea ing of the most remarkable cures effected by Hunt's Remedy in a case of Bright's Disease here in our midst in Dover, after the patient had been pronounced incurable by celebrated physi-

NOT EXACTLY A MASIS. But Still a Great Deal of Trouble Can

Soon after we left Meridian, on the way across to Nicksburg, a solemn looking old chap came into the smoker and groaned and sighed and took on like a man terribly distressed, and when we asked him where he seemed to feel it the worst, he replied "Gentlemen, there is a powerful good-looking young woman in the next car, and she has fallen into the hands of a human hyena."
"No!" shouted three or four voices at

"No!" shouted three or four voices at once.

"Yes, indeed. He's a wicked-looking wolf in sheep's clothing. If I mistake not, he represents some New England machinery house. He's a squeezing of her hand, and a whispering of his love, and the giddy thing has fallen right into the trap. I couldn't bear to see it any longer, and so I came in here. Gentlemen, some of you have daughters!"

came in here. Gentiemen, some or you have daughters!"

Yes, there was three of us who had daughters ranging from 2 to 7 years old, and we were houset enough to admit it.

"Just think of your daughters being cajoled by a Philistine!" he continued.

"He's talking, and flattering, and promising and she's somebody's daughter. Gen-

"He's talking, and flattering, and promising, and she's somebody's daughter. Genthemen, something orter be did !"

We agreed. We all lounged in and saw that she was a good-looking, happy faced girl of 20, and we returned and held an indignation meeting. After a fine display of eloquence and oratory it was unanimously agreed that if the masher got off at Jackson, where we were to wait twenty minutes, the good old man should go in and tell the girl what was what. Jackson was finally reached, and sure enough the hotel. He was not out of sight when we all entered the car, and the philianthropist took a seat beside the girl and began:

"My dear young lady, my heart is sad—ohl so sad!—for you! You are on the road to destruction!"

"We what do you memean?"

"W-what do you m-mean?"

"I mean that the villain who left you a moment ago is seeking to ensnare you."

"The v-villain!"

"Yes, ma'am, the wolf in sheep's clothing—the house.

"res, ma'am, the woll in sheep's cloth-ing—the lyena in human form—the seoundrel whose very look proves the vile-ness of his heart. I warn you to beware of him as you would of a serpent."
"Why, he's—he's my husband!" she shouted at the top of her voice, and the next instant she had her fingers playing through his venerable locks and excavating channels down his wrinkled cheeks.

Army Badges.

ctober St. Nicho'c October St. Nicho'az.

If, from any cause whatsoever, any one happened to have lost his command, or to have strayed away from or been left behind by his regiment, he could usually tell what part of the army he was with.

what part of the army he was with.

An admirable and significant system of badge was adopted for the entire Union army. The different corps were distinguished by the shape, the different divisions by the colors, of their several badges. Thus, the First Corps were a round badge, the Second a clover leaf, the Third a diamond, the Fifth a Maltese cross, the Sixth a Roman cross, the Ninth a shield, the Eleventh a crescent, the Twentleth a star, and so on. As each corps included three a Koman cross, the Ninth a shield, the Eleventh a crescent, the Twentieth a star, and so on. As each corps included three divisions, and as it was necessary to distinguish each of these from the other two, the three good old colors of the flag were chosen for the purpose—red, white and blue: red for the flet division of each corps, white for the second, and blue for the third. Thus a round red badge meant First Division, First Corps; a round white, Second Division, First Corps; ar ound blue, Third Division, First Corps; ar ound blue, Third Division, First Corps; are on of the other corps. Division and corps headquarters could always be known by their fligs bearing the badges of their respective commands. As the men were all obliged to wear their proper badges, cut out of flannel or colored leather, on the top of their cape, one could always tell at a glance what party of the Army of the Potomac he was in. In addition to this, some regiments were distinguished by a round recommender that the proper collection to this, some regiments were distinguished by a reare precliarity of puriferen tion to this, some regiments were distin-guished by some peculiarity of uniform. Our own brigade was everywhere known as "The Buck tails," for we all wore bucktails on the sides of our caps.

S-Blower Seed Cake for Cattle Food.

Prof. Bergstrand, of the Royal Agricultural Academy of Sweden, publishes a most laudatory report on the virtues of sunflower seed cake as a food for cattle. He states that it presents a remarkable constancy of composition rarely if ever met with in other cakes as met with in commerce. It contains from 13 to 16 per cent of fat, and 35 to 36 per cent of protein substances, and has, therefore, a nutritive value far above that of most ordinary feeding stuffs, besides which it has a most agreeable taste, and is altogether free from bitter or any injurious matters. Some careful experiments on its effects upon milch cows have been made at the Ultuna Agricultural Institute by Baron Akerbjelm, which tend to show that it both improves the quality and increases the quantity of their milk, the batter from which is of exceptional excellence. Many practical farmers in the neighborhood-have also made trial of the same food and are unanimous in their verdiet. Their milch cows all took greedily to the cake from the first day it was fed to them, and in all cases an improvement in the quality of the milk was quickly noted. For draft oxen and fattening bullocks also it is equally suitable, especially for the latter, whose meat presents an unequaled richness of flavor when thus fed, and it may be given in small quantities to horses, with much advantage, mixed into a thick mash with chaff. In comparison with other feeding stuffs this cake is very cheap, and it can be given in larger quantities than most other cakes without any ill effect. reflower Seed Cake for Cattle Poot.

· Pogyism on the Farm.

It is not an evidence of either wisdom or common sense to scorn to make use of improved methods of any implements for doing the work of the farm. Fogyism is fast dying out, it is true, yet a great many really sensible people follow number-less supersitions which have descended to them from their great grandfathers, from lack of courage to get out of these ruts and use their own God-given reason, and profit as well by the experience sand suggestions of their oxiaborers of today. We are living in the nine-teenth century, not the ninth, in a time of thinking as well as working, of planning as well as performing; and he who would keep abreast of the times must make use of every assistance within his reach, and not be afraid to test new discoveries and new inventions, if of a seemingly practical nature, even though his great-grandfather never so much as dreamed of them. It is a miataken idea to think that you will convince people that you are "not afraid of work" by choosing the slowest, clumsiest and hardest way of doing things. Far from it. You only prove that you were born at least a century too late and are too pig headed to profit by other people's experience. It is not an evidence of either wisdom or

Nature of the Dispuse—TheO. ly carefo it is Death. Every horse-owner is more or less acquainted with that loathsome disease, the dianders, and every one should be aware that it is both contagious and fatal, not only to horses, but also to mankind. The fact that the disease has to this day baffled all treatment, is sufficient reason why the detection of obsiders in a stable is always. detection of glanders in a stable is alway looked upon as serious. If the disease al ways assumed the same characters, if ever detection of glanders in a stable is always looked upon as serious. If the disease always assumed the same characters, if every glandered horse presented the three special symptoms essentially belonging to it, namely, the greenish, sticky, and at times bloody discharge at the nose, the hard, painless, and adherent swollen glands at the jaws, and, above all, the peculiar and characteristic ulcerations of the mucous membrane upon the cartilage of the cavities of the nose, there would be no difficulties in recognizing, the disease, and condemning the animal thus afflicted as most dangerous. But this is not always the case. The disease assumes many forms. Sometimes only a slight glandlar enlargement, again discharges from the nostrils, while in a third animal neither of these will exist, and only small ulcers will be detected in the upper angle of the nostrils. Still the animal is just as daugerous as if it showed all the symptoms fully developed; in fact, even more dangerous, for, while in this condition, it may apparently be in perfect health, its skin presenting nothing unusual to the ordinary observer. The horse may remain in good condition, feel as well as ever, be able to do its work, and remain thus for months, and communicate the glanders to able to do its work, and remain thus fo months, and communicate the glanders to many animals who may come in contact many animals who may come in contact with it. It is necessary to detect the dis-esse at the start, and for this no one should be better qualified than the regular Veteri-narian; he who has by his studies become familiar with the different aspects of the disease. If once detected, there must be no hesitation; certainty of the dis-ease should mean death to the ani-mal affected. Unless it is killed, most serimai affected. Unless it is killed, most serious, even fatal consequences, may follow.

The duty of the owner of an anional in a suspicious condition is, to have it examined at once. If there is no donbt about the disease, the horse must be at once destroyed. If there is doubt, it should be isolated and rather than wait for the development of all the symptoms, which may take a long time, inoculation of the matter from the discharge can be made on an old horse, a deg, or a rabbit, but still better on an o'd horse or an old mule or a donky. This inoculation will preduce glunders, no matter how small the quantity of the virus if taken from a glanded horse. Ministers Sound its Preise.

MEDICAL. Mischievous Malaria.

To say that malaria is mischievous is to put it very mildly. It is all that and more It is cunning, deceitful treacherous, sly, and underhanded. It does its work in the dark, and in such a sly way that much of the mis-chief is done before it is discovered. It says the foundations of a healthy system. It robs the blood of its vital-its, demoralizes the liver, confounds the stomach, and makes the victim wish he were in his grave. It is sad to see peoplesit down in their misery, content to be the victims of mischievous malaria, and thinking that nothing can be done for them. The power of Brown's Iron BITTERS over the mischiefs of malaria has been so am-ply proved that there is no reason why anybody who can procure a bottle of this Prince of Tonics shall suffer. Great is the power of malaria, and great are its disastrous effects. But greater far is the beneficent influence of Brown's Iron BITTERS. The preparation of iron in this favor-te family remedy can be taken without running the teeth or producug constipation and headache.
